 Explanation of complaint between customer and invention promoter: market my idea.

When I spoke to Mr. Cianflone I told him I needed to know how much it would cost me. He continued to explain that we would need to do the Research first and from there we would know if we could even go forward or not depend on the Research. I told him that [REDACTED] and that's why I needed to know before hand. He told me that in most cases if a major company wanted to look at my idea Mr. Davison would step up to the plate. Meaning that he would pay for the production to market the idea. Then he said he would pay a percentage, and he wouldn't be able to tell me that until the Research came back positive. He charged me $685.00 for the Research, when it came back positive, he told me it would cost between $9,895.00 to $14,525.00 depending on future royalties Mr. Davison agreed upon. When I specified that I would not be able to do this, if it costed in the thousands.
