Dear Davison:

I have sent your company a total of $2000 in the form of a debit card for $1000, and another $1000 was charged to my credit card. Please see the enclosed copies verifying that I sent your company $2000.

According to the law, Davison as the invention promoter must provide certain information to me, the inventor. Please see the enclosed Better Business Bureau information page which describes the requirements of the law.

I have never received any of this information from your company. I only received promotional information concerning the target company, and a copy of our contract which lacks the legal statements your company was supposed to have provided for me..

I do not feel confident with your company representing my interests, and I want my $2000 returned immediately. Your records may have my old address on them, which is:
[REDACTED]

Thank you.

Sincerely,
[REDACTED]

Dennis Gardner
